

GENERATING RESEARCH: RESEARCH ENABLERS

NATIONAL SECURITY ECOSYSTEM

11:00 am - 12:30 pm | Thursday, November 6, 2025

John Peace Library | Assembly Room 4.04.22

Presented by: Michelle Atchison Ph.D., Senior National Security Strategist, Office for Research and Innovation

Join us for an engaging faculty development workshop presented by the Office for Research and Innovation, focused on "Understanding and Navigating the National Security Ecosystem." This session will provide a foundational overview of the major organizations that shape the national security landscape, from traditional defense institutions to emerging non-traditional actors. Participants will explore a range of career and collaboration opportunities within this dynamic field and gain practical insights into how to communicate effectively using mission- and role-specific language. Whether you're new to the space or looking to deepen your engagement, this workshop offers valuable tools to help you and your students connect meaningfully with the national security community.
