LabArchives Discovery Day: From Introduction to Innovation

9:00 AM to 4:00 PM | Thursday, September 10, 2026

Individual Session Times Below

Virtual: In-Person: John Peace Library | Assembly Room | 4.04.22

Presented by: Gloria Yarandi, MS, Enterprise Success Manager, LabArchives, Better Science

Whether you're new to LabArchives or looking to expand how you use it in your research, LabArchives Discovery Day offers a full day of learning, networking, and hands-on exploration. The LabArchives Electronic Lab Notebook (ELN) helps researchers record and document research processes and procedures while managing digital research data to increase reproducibility, efficiency, collaboration, searchability, and security. UT San Antonio researchers, including faculty and students, can use LabArchives to manage their research data at no cost. Join us for a series of workshops designed to help faculty, researchers, and research staff discover the full potential of the LabArchives Electronic Lab Notebook (ELN).

Participants may register for individual sessions or attend the entire day, allowing you to customize your experience based on your interests and level of expertise. Start with the fundamentals of the LabArchives ELN, learn how to build templates, forms, and widgets to streamline your workflows, connect with experienced users during a lunch and learn session, and explore integrations that can enhance your research ecosystem. Dedicated office hours throughout the day provide opportunities to ask questions, troubleshoot challenges, and discuss use cases with LabArchives experts and peers.

Individual Sessions: session details can be found on the Research Calendar.
